The Next Platform

"No outside issue," says our neighbor of next fall with the duty of the people of Virtinning in power the Democratic party. However much opposed to negro insolence may be they cannot meet with the negroes in public meetings and hold such secret conferences with them as they do hold without leading their sable allies to the conclusion that a negro is as good as a white man. We do not desire to be unust to anybody. A Republican is entitled to fair treatment. But we must be permitted to express once more our surpri that southern white men should be found with the ignorant negro rabble. For if the white men of Virginia would stand together "as solid as a stone wall there would be no trouble with the negroes. the white master, therefore, that ought to walk in the right way and lead his negro peighbors. Without white leaders the negroes would be harmiess. These are facts entitled to the consideration of the white Republican of every southern State; but we state them once more to induce the white Republicaus of Virginia to put on their studying caps. We set out to introduce the following para graph from the State :

No! The fight will be made, as it ough to be made, for an object dear to the heart of every patriotic Virginian—the rule of the in-telligence and thrift of this State. The foc-that will confront the Democratic party has proved itself, after thorough trial in the executive, legislative, and infusterial branches of our government, to be incomble of that of our government, to be incanable of that rule under which alone Virginia can be prosperous and her people secure in their rights and content in all the walks of their daily life. Enlightenment and induskry will combat lawies-nessleading ignorance. The large majority of the earnest, progressive, law-abilding menof the State will contend with a mass of misguided voters who are the dupes and prey of those leaders, who, with a few honorable exceptions, are only political adventurers, the cast-off and rejected insterial of the party they now appose. The interests of Virginia portant at other times, shall be permitted to divide place in the public mind with that other question—that local question of fin-messurable importance which involves the see, the prosperity, and the civilization of

There is the case in a nutshell. Elsewhere the same article the State says that the tariff need not be alluded to in the Demo cratic platform. Why should it be alluded to? Would we elect county and city super s to protective customs-duties? Would we elect a Governor and a Legislature on tha issue when the all-important duty before u the defeat of MAHONE and his monstron schemes of miscule and oppression? Shall we, because he is an anti-protectionist or because he is a protectionist, vote for a candi-

Our neighbor of the Whig treats this matter sifft more seriously. Whilst of course that paper would not think of charging white Republicans with being privy to such outrages as those committed at Wahalak, Miss., last Saturday, it sees in such outrages the resoil if not of bad counsel at least of misanprehension on the negro's part as to what the election of Harrison foreshadows. The

"During the recent campaign we stated plainly our fears that the success of the Republican party would tend to produce disturbances between the races by causing the megroes to believe that they could do pretty much as they pleased with impunity, and those fears have been all too soon resided. those fears have been all too soon resilzed. Of course we do not mean that Mr. Harrison is in any way responsible for the riot, but only that the ignorant negroes misconstrued the significance of his election, and ininterpreted it as a license for them to act toward the whites in a manner which led to riot and bloodshed. That will probably be found to be the real cause of the trouble. If Mr. Harrison's Administration shall be such as to convince both races that law and order will be preserved at all hezards, and to prevent the future recurrence of race troubles by letting the negroes see that they have no more license under a Republican than under a Pemocratic administration, and the whites that they have no the that they have nothing more to fear from the ascendancy of the Republican than from that of the Democratic party, it may prove a blessing in disguise. But will it? We can only wait and see,"

And a four-in-hand trip through the country is now being planned by the party." Four what in hand? Permy would better look out. The Spaniards are very expert.

Away with outside issues. They should have no abiding place in our thoughts. They should be left to the northern people, who, happily for them, whether Republicans or Democrats, are not at all alarmed because of the election of HARRISON. They feel positively assured that nothing will be done in the northern States to demoralize any class or be the occasion of slarm, foreboding, and ple would feel that they were just as secure as their northern brethren if only our whites would stand together.

Not an Enviable Position.

abandoned as the price of their release, a York Mail and Express. serious problem faces England. The English Government was responsible for the presence of Emin in equatorial Africa, seeing that he was the appointee of Chinese Gon-DON. In large measure also England is responsible for the fact that STANLEY undertook the relief of Enix, as he was urged and impelled to lead the expedition by the influence of British public opinion. What therefore, will England do about the matter? As yet, of course, it is not certain that the English authorities at Suakim have not been imposed upon by their tricky enemy. While it is true that General General, could not have been deceived upon by their tricky enemy. While it is true that General General, could not have been deceived the sparaling a being that the probabilities are that that letter was religible the probabilities are that the teler was religible the probabilities are that the teler was religible to the bands of the Mahd. With this shadew of doubt hanging over the matter, can the English Government afford to suspend military operations in the Real wood, the Simmon Liver like the matter, can the English Government afford to suspend military operations in the religion of the species. Historial and thereby perhaps furnish Obaras Dioxa, and wood and the mainter of the matter, and the English Government afford to suspend military operations in the Real wood, the Simmon Liver like the shade of the main and wood and seministive powers of the system—based with the provided that it was an administer to the special powers and the standard of the course of the provides and the standard powers and the standard powers are the standard of the powers. The provides are the standard and wood and the wood and the standard and the provided the main operation in the Real Provided the pro took the relief of Emrs, as he was urged and would seem to be but one answe o these questions, and that a positive affirmative. The whole Soudan is not worth two such valuable lives as those of Emin Bey and STANLEY-is not worth the life of one of bem. That is the reply that naturally springs to all lips. Yet there is force in the argument that were England to add another page to her "scuttle" policy is dealing with the Soudanese the final outcome could only be a fearful expenditure of blood and money. Some of the chiefs in the Central Soudan are known to be disaffected towards the Mahdi, and any signs of weakness on the part of Eagland now would have the effect of suppressing this disaffection and of encouraging the Mahdi to make a descent upon Egypt. That England must hold Egypt goes without saying, and it is a foregone conclusion that sooner or later she must reconquer the Soudan and finish the work ommenced by MEHEMET ALI and continued for a fitne by Sir Sanuel Baker, Gordon, and others. It is a foregone conclusion that as a means to this last end she must have railroad connection between Suskim and Berber. The English public have been smarting under humiliation consequent upon the miserable mismanagement of the Soudan question ever since the time of the slaughter of the troops of HICKS PASHA and BAKER PASHA. The abandonment of the Soudan, the gallant but ill-fated Wolseler expedition, and its erole fighting on the Nile and in the desert between Korti and Metemneh, and the picture of Gordon sacrificed because hold mea sures were not taken until too late, awaken bitter memories. The Soudan failures consti tute a stain upon the English name and resultthe State, ought to be allowed to interfere | ed in a serious loss of British prestige. A growing realization of this has produced a ginia to preserve their civilization by con- formidable demand with the masses for a vigorous, aggressive, and decisive Soudan policy. These are the conditions under which Engand negro presumption white Republicans | land must determine what course she will pursue, and it must be confessed that the position she finds herself in is not an enviable

> Some of our exchanges are complimenting Rev. ROBERT MCINTYRE, a Methodist preacher of Chicago, because in a sermot recently preached by him he argued in favor of Sunday papers. We quote from the sermon as follows - not touching the main point "Salan can't stand ink. He told of how the ink-stained wall where the bottle of dark fluid that trate Luther hurled in his rage at the picture of a saint and missed was still shown with pride in Germany. That ink. he declared, was spilled in the progress of Christianity, and it was but the beginning of a fatal blow to evil. He told of the work of the Saxon monk and how ink had afterward been one of his mightiest weapons, and how the pulpit came to be allted with the press." We heard Bishop STEVENS, of the northern Methodist Episcopal Church, use that very illustration thirty years ago. "And there is no new thing under the sun."

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette tries o make light of the White Cap outrages in Ohio by remarking that "the White Cap flurry in Ohio is the horse-play of young men in the country whose resources of recreation are limited. Therefore they are trying private theatricals."

Referring to this the Providence Journal

"Field-Marshal Murat Halstead would bardly find words for his indignation if the Grand Army man who was terribly beaten by White Caps in Ohio recently bud been similarly treated by masked men the other side of Mason & Dixon's line.

We speak for an office under Harrison for the veteran ex-Governor Pereporsy, of West Virginia. He was named after HARRIson's grandfather. His name is FRANCIS HARRISON, and many of the older inhabitants of his county always call him HARRISON "HARRISON Parepoint" we have often heard him called.
